□>> GENERAL INTRODUCTION TO THE MERGED FILE

The 1992-1997 Merged Datafile brings together all publicly released variables in the following recent National Election Studies datasets: the 1992 Pre- and Post-election studies, the 1993 Pilot Study, the 1994 Post-election study, the 1995 Pilot Study, the 1996 Pre- and Post-election studies and the 1997 Pilot Study. The total number of cases in the 1992-1997 Merged Datafile is 2439.

This introduction summarizes the composition of the sample for each study, describes the structure of the Merged Datafile and provides examples of ways that the Merged Datafile can be used for subsetting data for time series and/or panel analysis. In the next section of this Merged Datafile codebook, the introductory information from each separate study's codebook is included, because they contain the necessary documentation needed to use the variables in each year.

□>> SAMPLE COMPOSITION IN THE MERGED FILE

For 1993 through 1997, all cases from the study are included in the combined file. For 1992, only those cases that were part of the fresh cross-section sample in 1992 are included in the Merged File. 1250 cases that were part of a previous panel, the 1990-91-92 Political Consequences of War panel, are not included in the Merged Datafile; only the 1005 fresh cross-section cases with completed interviews in the 1992 pre- and post-election surveys that were therefore eligible to be reinterviewed in a subsequent study are included here.

TABLE 1: SAMPLE COMPOSITION OF COMPONENT STUDIES OF THE 1992-97 MERGED FILE

Study	Sample Description	Total n*	Panel n*	Cross-section n*
1992 Pre- and post-election studies	1005 'fresh' cross-section cases with complete pre- and post-election Iws	1005	0	1005
1993 Pilot Study;	750 of the 1005 1992 panel cases	750	750
1994 Post-election study	759 of the 1992 panel cases and 1036 fresh cross-section cases	1795	759	1036
1995 Pilot study	486 of the 1036 1994 panel cases	486	486	0
1996 Pre-election study	597 of the 1992 panel cases, 719 of the 1994 panel cases and 398 fresh cross-section cases	1714	1316	398
1996 Post-election study	545 of the 1992 panel cases, 652 of the 1994 panel cases and 337 of the 1996 pre-election cross-section cases	1534	1197	337 (1996 Panel)
1997 Pilot study	551 of the 1534 cases completed in 1996 post: 148 of the 1992 panel cases, 186 of the 1994 panel and 217 of the 1996 panel cases	551	551	0

*Unweighted

□>> STRUCTURE OF THE MERGED DATAFILE

The dataset for each study in the Merged Datafile is identical to the original dataset for that year, including all survey variables as well as sampling, case disposition, conditions of interviewing and other ancillary variables such as those that describe randomization position. 1996 contextual variables are also included. The variables are ordered chronologically by year, starting with 1992 and ending with 1997. Within each study's data, the variables are in the same order as in the original data file.

To simplify identification of each variable, the two-digit year was prepended to the variable name. For example, variable v3034 from the 1992 NES became v923034 in the Merged Datafile. For 1996 and 1997, variables had already been named according to this convention, so those variable names remain the same as in the stand-alone datasets for those years. See the Variable Descriptor List below for a complete list of variable names and short descriptors.

TABLE 2: SUMMARY OF VARIABLE NAMES AND THE YEARS TO WHICH THEY APPLY

□>> USE OF THE MERGED FILE FOR PANEL OR CROSS-SECTIONAL ANALYSIS

The 1992-1997 Merged Datafile can be used for both cross-sectional and panel analysis through selecting subsets of cases. Each election year sample can be analyzed as a whole, in cross-sectional or trend analysis. Cases that were reinterviewed in more than one election study can be treated as a panel; the 1992 and 1994 panels have data from more than one election year study.

Cases that have no data for a given year because they dropped out of the sample (panel attrition) or had not yet entered the sample (cross-section from a subsequent year) are blank for variables in the years when they were not in the sample. The variable to use for subsetting is VPARTIC, frequencies for which are reproduced below as Table 3. VPARTIC provides the basis for selecting cases in order to conduct cross-sectional and panel data analysis.

To extract a subset of cases to analyze all cases that entered the study as part of the panel that began in 1992, the user would subset those cases with a code between 21 and 30 inclusive on VPARTIC. Subsequent years' variables would contain missing data for those 1992 cases that dropped out anes_mergedfile_1992to1997_intro_codebook.txt

of the study. To study only those 1994 respondents who were first interviewed in 1994 and were reinterviewed through 1997, codes 30 and 45 would be used to select the relevant cases. (Users interested in issues of panel attrition for these years should contact the NES staff concerning files of respondent and nonrespondent contact information.)

NOTE ABOUT VARIABLE 'PADDING':

If a respondent did not participate in a particular study included within the file, the variables for that study will be represented by a blank in the raw data file and interpreted as missing data. For example, respondents who were first interviewed in 1994 will have 1992 PrePost and 1993 Pilot variables padded with blanks.

>> WEIGHTS AVAILABLE WITH THE 92-97 MERGED FILE

The weights originally issued with each year's dataset are found in this combined file, as are new weights released in October 1997. Weights adjust for household nonresponse and number of eligible respondents in the household and incorporate post-stratification factors; they were constructed by the Survey Research Center sampling section.

Analysts vary in their approach to using weight variables and each user must make his or her own decision about whether or not to use available NES weights and/or which weights to apply, based on judgements about the analyses to be done. For more information on the use of specific weights, users should refer to the relevant sections of the individual study years' documentation, including the introductory material which follows here. Detailed reports on sample designs and the construction of weights and sampling errors for complex samples like the NES are available in individual study year codebooks. Analysts interested in developing their own nonresponse or post-stratification adjustment factors may request access to the necessary sample control data from the NES Board.
