CS. (R.B., P. 1) I'd like to get your feelings toward some of our political leaders and other people who are in the news these days.

I'll read the name of a person and I'd like you to rate that person using this feeling thermometer. You may use any number from 0 to 100 for rating. Ratings between 50 degrees and 100 degrees mean that you feel favorable and warm toward the person. Ratings between 0 degrees and 50 degrees mean that you don't feel too favorable toward the person.

If we come to a person whose name you don't recognize, you don't need to rate that person. Just tell me and we'll move on to the next one.

If you do recognize the name, but don't feel particularly warm or cold toward the person, you would rate the person at the 50 degree mark.

Our first person is Jimmy Carter. How would you rate him using the thermometer?

- ① Printed question text as it appears in the interview schedule for the traditional in-person NES post-election survey.
- ② CATI indicates that the question is also administered in a methodological study which makes use of computer-assisted telephone interviewing (CATI) and is being conducted concurrently with the in-person survey. The absence of a CATI flag (either by the question text or at the top of the page) indicates that the given question was administered in the in-person survey only.
- ③ #...# indicates a note which refers to differences between the in-person and CATI instruments.

An Appendix displays sample CATI screens and question text.

About the 1982 Study -

Interviewing for the in-person post-election survey began on November 3, 1982. Interviews are being taken with a national sample of approximately 1500 U. S. citizens of voting age located in the 74 primary areas of the county-based Survey Research Center National Sample. The sample geographic areas are scattered over some 170 congressional districts. In 1982, because of redistricting, it was impossible to consider drawing a new sample with new congressional districts as primary sampling areas.

The CATI study will consist of interviews approximately 50 minutes in length with a sample of 1000 respondents selected by a random digit dialed procedure. The SRC Telephone Interviewing Facility in Ann Arbor will conduct 500 of these interviews and the Computer-Assisted Survey Methods Program (CSM) at the University of California, Berkeley, the other 500. Matched half-samples are in use at each installation. Interview schedules are identical except for planned experimentation relating to measurement of issue positions. Both a "branching" format and the 7-point scales are used.

Another experimental aspect of the CATI study involves the "dynamic" assignment of respondents to congressional districts based on answers provided by them in the course of the interview.

Telephone exchanges and congressional districts have different boundaries. About half of the telephone clusters (sample areas) are wholly contained inside a single congressional district; the other half of the clusters cover areas in which two or three congressional districts are represented. After the data have been gathered, geographic information given by the respondent will be used to assess the accuracy of the CATI technique for congressional district identification.

The 1982 Study is supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

c5. (R.B., P. 1) I'd like to get your feelings toward some of our political leaders and other people who are in the news these days.

minor wording difference

I'll read the name of a person and I'd like you to rate that person using this feeling thermometer. You may use any number from 0 to 100 for rating. Ratings between 50 degrees and 100 degrees mean that you feel favorable and warm toward the person. Ratings between 0 degrees and 50 degrees mean that you don't feel too favorable toward the person.

If we come to a person whose name you don't recognize, you don't need to rate that person. Just tell me and we'll move on to the next one.

If you do recognize the name, but don't feel particularly warm or cold toward the person, you would rate the person at the 50 degree mark.

Our first person is Jimmy Carter. How would you rate him using the thermometer?

PROBE FOR "I DON'T KNOW" RESPONSE: When you say "don't know" do you mean that you don't know who the person is, or do you have something else in mind?

Not CATI

This page is blank in in-person interview schedule. Section D is omitted (inappropriate) for in-person interview.

SECTION D

CATI evaluates at this point R's answers to the Recall and Recognition questions for House candidates. If the answers point to one district, the candidates from that district are used throughout the remainder of the interview.

If no district can be guessed from R's answers (No Recall, No Recognition of any name), CATI skips to Section F.

If the answers point to two or more districts, Section D is administered.

Section D. Q.D02 - District verification when candidates from more than one district are "recalled" or "recognized"

D02. People with your telephone exchange are in one of several possible congressional districts. So that I can go ahead with the questions I have, I need to determine the congressional district in which you live.

Do you live in the district where (name) and

Do you live in the district where (name) and

If answer to D02 is "Don't Know," CATI skips Section E and also skips placement of House candidates in Section J (Issues). The Vote (Section L) for House is administered open-ended for these respondents. This same treatment
